

Online Film Screening of:
HEALING FROM HATE

*Sponsored by Northeastern Society for Group Psychotherapy &
Tufts Department of Occupational Therapy*

This documentary explores a compassion lens and group process approach that helps people, often survivors of trauma, whose fear has led them to extremist beliefs and activity. The organization Life After Hate, founded by ex-White Nationalists and ex-Neo-Nazis, helps people leave hate groups, recover, and reintegrate into their families and society.

The aims of this event are to:

- Explore how macrocosm of societal issues is present in microcosm of educational & therapeutic contexts
- Examine how trauma & unprocessed fear contribute to risk in being recruited by extremist groups
- Offer a trauma informed & compassion based lens as a possible means for healing & addressing hate in our work
- Learn about possible resources for those with whom you might work who are impacted by hate groups
